

Experiential Learning Funds Application

Global Women's Studies

Global Women's Studies students are encouraged to participate in an approved, substantive experience that augments their BYU education. The GWS program has some funds to support Experiential Learning projects that students propose. Proposals that make a strong case for their connection to GWS and that provide a detailed travel and supply budget will more likely receive support.

Name:	BYU ID#:
Email:	Major(s) and Minor(s):

List GWS classes you have taken:

1.	4.
2.	5.
3.	6.

Describe any participation in the Women's Studies Honor Society (leadership, membership, volunteering, attendance at activities) and attendance at GWS events (100 words or fewer):

Choose the category of your proposed experiential learning adventure (mouse over option 1 to see a drop down menu):

Title of your experiential learning adventure:	Faculty Mentor / Program Director:
Location:	Dates:

Please have your program director send an email to globalwomensstudies@byu.edu to verify her or his willingness to work with you. If you have already been accepted to the internship, study abroad, or conference, send the acceptance letter/notification to the Global Women's Studies email address above.

Describe the relationship between this adventure and the field of GWS (175 words or fewer):

Describe any specific outcomes you believe will result from your experience (GWS capstone research, honors thesis, publishable article, conference paper delivery, creative work, etc.) (150 words or fewer):

Provide a detailed budget. Write N/A for any category that does not apply. Use the spaces provided to be specific about where and how you will travel, how many days you will need food and lodging, what supplies you will need, what else you will need to pay for, etc.

Program Costs (BYU ISP Office estimate)
Transportation:
Lodging:
Food:
Supplies:
Other:
TOTAL

Indicate other sources of funding you have applied for to support this experiential learning adventure: